St. Paul, MN. The 2006 senior class of the University of Minnesota's Department of Design, Housing & Apparel (DHA) is pleased to present Last Call: Give Us A Shot!, an exhibition of senior design work, April 23 to May 10, 2006 at the Goldstein Museum of Design, located in McNeal Hall on the St. Paul Campus. The students are the final graduating design class of the University's College of Human Ecology. Join them in the celebration of design work as that college closes and a new one—The College of Design—opens.

This senior exhibition was created and produced solely by the 2006 DHA graduating class. It showcases impressive creativity and fresh talent in the fields of graphic design, clothing design, and interior design as well as housing studies. The projects include class work and final design presentations, as well as work completed in internships, freelance, and pro bono assignments.

Promotional support for Last Call: Give Us A Shot! is provided by REAL COLLEGE RADIO - Radio K.
